

Presidenta COSME 2016

Libertad González (Universitat Pompeu Fabra) is an associate professor at Universitat Pompeu Fabra and an affiliated professor at the Barcelona GSE. She received her PhD from Northwestern University in 2003, and works in Labor and Public Economics, particularly on topics related to female labor force participation, fertility, and divorce. She has published in the AEJ: Policy and the Journal of Human Resources, among others.

Vice Presidenta COSME 2016

Matilde Machado (Universidad Carlos III de Madrid) is an associate professor at the Department of Economics of Universidad Carlos III de Madrid. She obtained her PhD in Economics from Boston University. Her research has been published in the Journal of Econometrics, the Journal of the European Economic Association, the International Economic Review, the Journal of Health Economics, and the European Journal of Health Economics.

Vocales COSME 2016

Caterina Calsamiglia (CEMFI) is a research professor at CEMFI. She obtained her PhD in 2005 from Yale University. Her major research areas are in Public Economics. She has worked on issues concerning equality of opportunities, affirmative action, and school choice among others. Her work has been published at the American Economic Review, Journal of the European Economic Association, Journal of Public Economics, etc.

Irma Clots-Figueras (Carlos III) received her PhD from the London School of Economics. She works on Development Economics, Labor Economics, Public Economics, and Political Economy. She has published in multiple journals, including AEJ: Applied, AEJ: Policy, Journal of Public Economics, JEEA, etc.

Lidia Farré (Universitat de Barcelona & IAE-CSIC). She received her PhD from the European University Institute in 2006. Her main research interests are in Labor Economics, with a focus on migration and gender economics. Her research has been published at the Journal of Development Economics, Journal of Population Economics, Economica, Oxford Bulletin of Economics and Statistics among others.

Rosa Ferrer (Universitat Pompeu Fabra) received her PhD from Vanderbilt University. Her research focuses on the areas of Law and Economics and Industrial Organization. She has published in the Review of Economic Studies, The Journal of Political Economy and the European Economic Review.

Luisa Fuster (Carlos III) Professor of Economics in Universidad Carlos III de Madrid. Previously, she was Associate Professor at University of Toronto and Universitat Pompeu Fabra and Research Professor at IMDEA Social Sciences. Luisa obtained her PhD in Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona. Her research spans across fields, including macroeconomics, public finance and labor economics. It has dealt with issues as the macroeconomic and distributive effects of government tax policies and social security reform. Her recent research focuses on understanding gender differences in labor supply and wages. Her research has been published in academic journals as the Review of Economic Studies and the Journal of Monetary Economics among others.

Ana I. Moro-Egido (Universidad de Granada) is currently a tenured Professor of Economics at the University of Granada, Spain. She has a PhD in Economics by Dpto. de Fundamentos del Analisis Economico of University of Alicante. She has published several articles in a number of international journals of high scientific reputation in the area of Economics (Journal of Econometrics, Review of Income and Wealth, Scandinavian Journal of Economics, Feminist Economics, etc). Her research interests have gravitated around questions related to economic inequality, subjective well-being, and family economics.

Virginia Sánchez-Marcos (Universidad de Cantabria) received her PhD from Universidad Carlos III de Madrid. Some of Virginia's research has focused on female labor supply, with papers published in the American Economic Review, the Journal of the European Economic Association, and the Review of Economic Dynamics. She has also contributed to the literature on pension systems.

Marcos Vera Hernández (UCL) received his PhD from Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona. His research focuses on health economics, both in developed and developing countries. He has studied issues related to health insurance, child health, and cognitive development during childhood. He is carrying out experiments in China, Nigeria and Nepal, in order to study how different incentive systems can be used to improve maternal and infant health. He has published in the American Economic Journal: Applied Economics, The Economic Journal, Journal of Health Economics, and The Rand Journal of Economics.